$12,000 Returned by Entropia Universe Gamer to Distraught Seller

Gothenburg, Sweden - December 22, 2016 - A buyer returned $12,000 to a seller who mistakenly auctioned off their life savings in the real cash economy game Entropia Universe.

"Please help me I am crying my life savings, I can't believe," posted the distraught player on an official forum after they mistakenly 'dicked away' $12,000 worth of virtual property for a fraction of its value earlier this month.

However, within a few days the buyer (whose virtual avatar goes by the nickname "Pitbull") graciously returned the deeds and received a "good gift" from the thankful seller.

A heartening story from the world of gaming and Virtual Reality.

About MindArk PE AB and Entropia Universe AB

Entropia Universe has a unique Real Cash Economy (RCE) gaming model — a Sci-Fi MMO universe formed of various planets managed by separate developer companies ('planet partners') that are linked by a common currency known as Project Entropia Dollars (PED) which is fixed at 10:1 to the US Dollar. Players create 'Avatars' that can deposit and withdraw funds for their own ventures within Entropia Universe. MindArk created Entropia Universe in 1998 and is responsible for platform-wide development and the most established Planet: Planet Calypso.

MindArk are also the developers of the Beast Battle app game ComPet.
